OUR MISSION

The Code Enforcement Officer Safety Foundation exists to promote best practices for the safety of Code Officials across the world; to provide a resource for officials; report incidents; provide up-to-date training and to encourage a high standard of professionalism within our chosen profession.

HOW WE STARTED

There has always been a need to focus on the topic of Officer Safety since the first documented Code Enforcement Officer murder in 1932 when the profession was just establishing itself.

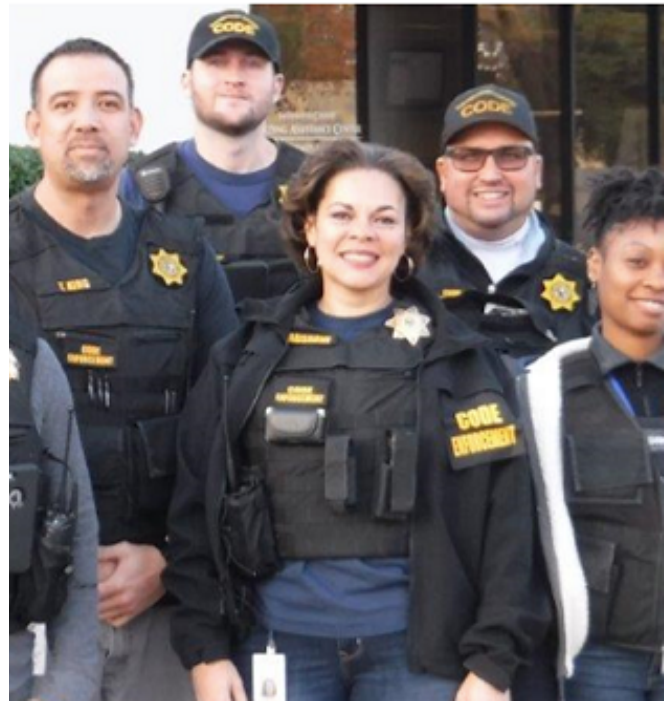

In 2018, Code Enforcement Officer Jill Robinson from Utah was murdered at an inspection and tragically set on fire. Why? She was the officer assigned to a nuisance case at the property and was meeting with him to seek a resolution. Code Enforcement Officers across the country have been murdered for just doing their job of regulating health and safety. Since Jill's murder, three (3) other Officers have been murdered.

In 2018 Timothy Sun started an Officer Safety Fund to raise money to donate bullet-proof vests in honor of Jill. Then in 2020, Justin Edson started a national tracking website and memorial page. The Foundation was formed in 2020 when all of these resources merged together. The Foundation provides resources, information, a newsletter, statistics, and scholarships reliant on generous donations.

WHAT IS A CODE ENFORCEMENT OFFICER

Code Enforcement Officers are called a variety of terms throughout the country and between different jurisdictions. They could be called officers or inspectors and can be assigned to Building Departments, Community Development, Fire, or Police. In some jurisdictions, Code Enforcement Officers are Peace Officers assigned to enforcing housing and nuisance laws. In other areas they are assigned to the Fire Department as Fire Marshals or inspectors. The Foundation also represents Building Inspectors, Fire Inspectors, Health Inspectors, Animal Control, CSO's, Vector, Park Rangers and all Code Officials.

International Code Council and Code Enforcement Officer Safety Foundation join forces to support code officials

New agreement facilitates increased collaboration between the two organizations and will lead to additional training and resources for building safety professionals

Why code enforcement matters

Policing Matters

Government

The Broken Windows theory, introduced by George Kelling and James Wilson in 1982, and the tenets of Crime Prevention Through Environmental Control (CPTED), demonstrate the need to address disorder, blight and low-level environmental disruption as a deterrent from larger crimes and gathering points for criminal activity. Code enforcement officers are an invaluable part of preventing those environmental disruptions from coming to fruition.

In this episode of the Policing Matters podcast, host Jim Dudley speaks with Code Enforcement Manager Justin Edson, who serves as president of the Code Enforcement Officer Safety Foundation, about how
